

Kara Siemieniewski
North Dakota State College of Science

I have grown up on my family's farm and have been very involved from a young age. Through helping on the farm and participating in FFA, I have developed a great passion for the agriculture industry. If I am not working on the farm, I enjoy spending time volunteering and helping out in my community. I am excited to be attending North Dakota State College of Science for Precision Agronomy and Animal Science. After graduating college, I plan to return to the family farm with the intent to take it over one day.
